   3.3 We will use the information supplied by the customer when preparing the design and proof. We cannot accept responsibility for errors in information that has been supplied incorrectly and subsequently approved by the customer.

7.2 Colours displayed on computer screens, tablets and mobile devices may differ from the finished printed product due to screen settings, lighting and differences between digital and physical materials.

7.3 Natural and speciality papers may have variations in texture, shade or finish. Handmade, foil-pressed, embossed or other specialist processes may result in minor differences between individual items.

12.4 Personalised goods are not excluded from remedies for faulty, damaged or misdescribed products.

12.5 We cannot accept responsibility for dissatisfaction arising solely from a preference that differs from a design or proof expressly approved by the customer, provided the finished product conforms to the agreement and applicable law.
